William S. Lincoln, Licutemant Colonel of the Thirty-fourth Mussachusetts regiment, which presed through this city last caturday, on its way to the war, is the eldest living sen of the Hon. Levi Lincoln, of Worosster, who for olde years was Governor of Massachusetts, and grandeen of Levi Lincoln, Sen., Astorney General of the United States under Julierson. Mr. Lincoln was educated to the bar, but an excessive fondance for agricultural pursuits ban made him torce a farmer than a lawyer. He is a id, dashing man, who will never turn his face from elegant Miss Transbulls, of Massachusette, a lady who added to her other accomplishments the art of riding and managing the wildest of horses with a skill and grace which many an officer of cavairy might envy.

It would be well for our wealthy citizens to remember the Phonix regiment, the fourth of the Empire Brigader under command of Col. James C. Burke, an able and effi-cient officer. The officers who are appointed up to the present time are men who must obtain and command the present time are men who must obtain and command the respect of all who may enlist under them. Eve bundred men have already been enrolled since the 2d of July, nearly all of whom are Irleh, and a finer or more stalworth body of men could not well be brought together. This regiment is also called "The Corcorant Zonaves," and this title has gained for it a host of recruits which might not otherwise be forth-coming. The officers are now in need of funds, according to their own statements, to advance the interests of their command, as they have not as yet received special and from any party whatever, either public or private, and they call upon the patriotic wealthy cuizans of this city to energetically come forward to their rescue. When it is taken into commite ation the acrifices made by these men for their country, the public will not hestate a moment in this connection. The headquarters of the Premix regiment is at 534 Bradway.

A Reduced Regimen'—A Duel in the Cump—Story of Returned Union Prisoner, de.

o imposing this army corps I happened to spend a longer time than usual with the Sixty-first regiment New York Volunteers, Colonel Barlow. This regiment has suifered more than any other regiment in the war, excepting, per-haps, a single Illinois regiment in the Western campaign, Before the battle of Fair Oaks this regiment numbered five hundred men, with a proper compliment of officers. This regiment has taken a prominent part in all the battles since that eventful and bloody day, receiving on every occasion the highest encomiums for their bravery and steadiness. On one occasion, in obedicace to orders, they crossed a fence and charged and routed a superior force of the enemy in an open field, which position they held until ordered to retire. Their decimated ranks tell a tale of glory for them better than words of flattery from a war historian. They have lost by death among the deld officers since Fair Oaks, one; line officers, sixand by wounds, seven line officers. Of privates they have lost 242 in killed and wounded, or more than ous fields in which they have encountered the enemy, to ment belongs to the brigade formerly commanded by the gallant Howard, who lost his sword arm at Fair Cake.

gallant Howard, who lost his sword arm at Fair Cake. His brigade did the largest share of the highling on Sunday, June I.

Two officers of the Seventy-recond Pennsylvania (Baxter's Fire Zenaves), not satisfied with the amount of fighting they had, endured from Fair Oaks to Malvern, reserted to the "homorable code" to settle a fanced or real point of dispute between them. Quite secretly the didir was arranged by the respective seconds, according to the strictest requirements of ale code of honor.

A day or two ugo the affair came off, resulting in the wonding or the aggressive party and to the satisfaction of the wounded honor of the obtar.

In one of the prisons in which folion officers were confined a mode or egress offered, of which many of those in durance during the day availed themselves at highly without arresting the attention of the vigitant sections of the relief prison. Thus many of our officers walked the streets of the relief capital at might, seeing what they could, and to come meanness variing the prisons without molecutation, and returning to their prisons without detection.

Lieutenant Caber, of the Edity-Courtb New York Volunteers, who returned yesterday, informs me that the rebels atrained every nerve to reinforce Jackson and Ewell in the valley. Kumerous interess of artillery, probably a hundred pleets, passed through Richmondirem the peninanta, on its way to play against the forces of Pope. Though fishenead attill held a fair quantity of solders and officers, it was or locat that the attention of the robbs was mere directed towards force the force of the solders and also a division of two on this side to the declinate any news of Mechanica against Richmond. Things are gradually being licked into shape in this new Spanish province. Our long expected Captain General Don Pelipe Ribero y Lemayne, arrived on the 20th inst., and will speedily assume the functions of his effice. Report styles him a gentleman of extremely liberal views, belonging to the O'Donnell and Prim school of politics. General Santana tikes his removal apparently with his usual stellid, Indian style of nonchalance, but I think he is not altogether indistrent to the change. The old man is undoubtedly a well wisher of his country, and if the annexation of Santana to the change it will be annexation of Santana and santana in the annexation of Santana and santana it was a server of the Comingo to Spain was a mistake it was an error of the formingo to Spain was a mistake it was an error of the head, not of the heart. He is much respected and beloved by the Indian population; but the white and mixed races are disposed to build their looper rather on a white ad-ministration of affairs, and camifest, most unequivocally, their desire to "speed the parting, hall the coming

The new tariff is definitely appounced as to take effect the coming month. It is similar in many respects to that of Porte Rice, and is much more liberal to importers than the present one. I have already forwarded you a synonsis of its general features.

The great question of agricultural improvement ous that her land should be occupied and brought under far are not the class of men required. They come with mistaken ideas of the country. The spuff that invade the wilderness with conquering step and carries the home of civilization into "forests where the sunshine has never found a pair" is not in them. The new wanted, and the men who would carse out fortimes here, are the bardy weedline of haline, the stock growers, farmers and quarrymen of Vermost, New Humpshire and old Massachnetts. This is the kind of stock to make a new country since. The effects of Colonal Falcens to bring about an understanding between the governments of Spain and the United States for the introduction of intelligent contrabuads are good in their degree, and I downly hope that they may be successful. We need all the labor we can got, but we want with it white enterprise to groups it and white to tellect to guide it. Biacks are respected and treated according to their merits, but it is well to observe that whites do not labor here, as in Hayti, under any social or position disadvantages attaching to their unfortunate color.

Considerable attention is being paid to the planting of cotton, and next year San Domingo will rank among the cotton producers. I see an reason why the cultivation of this staple cannot be successfully carried on. The cotton tree grows spontaneously on all the south side of the island, and flourishes in the poorest soil. That which is grown in this vicinity so of short staple, but strong and fine. It would undoubtedly improve with care in raising. On the extreme castern end of the Island, in the department of Higney, the staple is longer and finer. Cotton yarn used for use and finer. Cotton yarn used for use and nammooks was found here in groat slore by Columbus. In 1894, when the system of tribute was imposed on the natives, in those distrigits where no gold was produced, cotton was received as a stituction—a wrinkle which your Southern brethern seem to have made a note of. A specimen of this cotton, forwarded by General Cameau, from his catancia, may be seen at Professor Mapes' agricultural warchouse in your city.

Near Avan arge formations of rock sait have been discovered. It is of a clear, crystal formation, and could probably be made of value by enterprising parties. An is the case with all the great talmeral resources of this country, no effort will be made to develop it by either Spaniards or Dominfeans. The copper region, under the direction of Col. Hinchen, of London, is being exploited in a very antishectory manner. The coal besit at Samman are also attracting the attention of foreigners.

Mr. Jagger, thinted States Consul, left on the 18th inst. on a visit home. Mr. Waldemyer, of Baltimers, is acting Consul diving his absence.

Since the advent of the Spaniards trade with the United States has largely interessed. Within the last two months not less that six carges have arrived from New York and beston. Previously we had a stage of an of or easy made houses, adapted to a tropical c sale.

The weather is very warm this season. Among the troops and snipping there is some diarrhaes and the light intermittent fever of these lattudes, but no epidemic of a dangerous character.

From the latest accounts we have had from this naval station we learn that work is on the increase, owing to the large number of vessels arriving for repairs. Like all other naval depots at the present time, it has become so much of a resert for the curious in all matters pertaining to war that it was necessary for the commandant not to allow any visitors without passes. This has been done from the fact that the employes were somewhat distracted by liaving to raise their heads to glance at the hosts of fair ones who have lately visited the yard, and the same has been the case in nearly all our yards. If the same rule is enforced throughout, it will prove a great saving to Uncle Sam; for the innumerable questions put to the employee by all visitors cause a great loss of time, and time now is worth one hundred per cent mere than over before. There has been an unusual activity in nlisting for the past two weeks. The greater part of them, however, are landsmen.

The following board than been appointed by Secretary Welles to examine the proposed sites for a new navy yard at this station, and will meet in New London on the
